

HOLMES AND WATSON

Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson were on a camping holiday in Scotland.

The weather was superb.

On the second night as they climbed into their sleeping bags.

Holmes said: 'Watson, look up and tell me what you see?'

Watson said, 'Well, speaking scientifically, I see myriads of stars, constellations, planets and heavenly bodies forming part of our galaxy with their teeming intricate pathways and patterns.

However, speaking philosophically, I see what humankind has wrestled with since the beginning of recorded history.

What does all this mean? What is it made of? Is there any purpose to be discovered?

Speaking theologically, I would say in the words of the Psalmist : 'the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork'.

Tell me what you see Holmes?'

A short pause. Holmes said: 'Based on everything you've told me, I'd say someone has nicked our damned tent'.
